

2012 PROBONO REPORT

In 2013, 92 Lycoming County attorneys handled 313 pro bono cases for the Williamsport Office of North Penn Legal Services. Protection from abuse matters continue to be the largest case type at 153. The Mortgage Diversion Program provided representation to 32 individuals and families. Cases also included POA's, guardianships, unemployment compensation matters, lawsuit defenses, bankruptcy, landlord tenant, and other civil matters.

Attorneys supervised 24 custody clinics and 4 divorce clinics during 2013. These clinics are facilitated by paralegals from private firms and Penn College paralegal students, and are supervised by Law Association members.

Three attorneys volunteered at least one day a week in the Williamsport Office during 2013. They are handling mainly brief service advice calls for landlord tenant and other case types conducive to brief service. They also fill in at hearings, help with research, basically volunteering wherever needed.

Attorneys continue to generously donate from one to all of their arbitration fees to the Foundation in support of North Penn Legal Services.

There was no formal CLE presented by North Penn Legal in 2013 but Jennifer Heverly continued to meet on a one on one basis with attorneys willing to participate in the Mortgage Diversion program.
