Re: 2022 Pro Bono Report for Lycoming County
Date: January 9, 2023

I want to thank the members of the Law Association for your service and your support this past year. The LLA and the courts have been promoting pro bono service at every opportunity, and I hope that 2023 will see a return to the levels of participation that we have experienced in the past.

2022 has been a year of transition and challenges at North Penn. This year, we again experienced a decrease in the number of cases that were referred to and handled by pro bono attorneys. This was due, in part, to the absence of three of our most active pro bono attorneys, but also due to the fact that I have been focused on training new staff and transitioning my workload. With those changes and challenges now behind us, I plan to focus more attention and effort on recruiting volunteers and finding new ways to accommodate volunteers who used to serve. I am attaching our letter to the new admittees to the bar of Lycoming County, which outlines our pro bono opportunities.

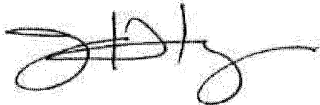

We have tried to compensate for this decrease using the increased number of staff attorneys in our office and by contracting with private attorneys on an hourly basis, but these resources are limited and the demand for services continues to increase. The Lycoming Law Association Foundation approved a grant for our office to contract with private attorneys in 2023, to handle Protection from Abuse cases involving children, to help meet the increased demand in this area.

This is a breakdown of the number and types of cases referred to pro bono attorneys by North Penn in 2022:

Protection from Abuse	132
Landlord/Tenant	2
Debt Collection	3
Medical Assistance	4
Expungement	1
Bankruptcy	1
Guardianship	1
Divorce (clinic)	3
Unemployment Comp.	2
Power of Attorney	2
Other Welfare	1
Total	152

I want to thank everyone who accepts these cases. Our clients often present special challenges, due to mental health problems, intellectual limitations, or simply, a lack of resources. I'm grateful that, in spite of these challenges, you've continued to volunteer your time and your hard work, to help them.

Dear Attorney _____,

We would like to take this opportunity to congratulate you on your association with the _____ Law Firm. As an active attorney in Lycoming County, you have become affiliated with a bar association that is a leader within the state of Pennsylvania in bringing pro bono legal services to the indigent.

In 1985, the Lycoming Law Association, upon recommendation of then President Judge Thomas C. Raup, insisted that each of its members, and any attorneys admitted to the Lycoming County Courts, take a minimum of three pro bono referrals each year from the local legal aid office, which is now North Penn Legal Services. Judge Nancy Butts, the current President Judge, has continued the Court's commitment to pro bono representation in this county. The Court and the Law Association believe this to be an integral part of an attorney's professional responsibility.

North Penn Legal Services has a number of options available for performing pro bono service.

1. Protection from Abuse Panel

This panel is comprised of approximately 50 attorneys who have agreed to fulfill their pro bono obligation by accepting indigent clients who are seeking Protection from Abuse orders. This is the area of greatest need for pro bono service, and many attorneys find this to be a rewarding and satisfying way to meet their obligation. There are several law firms in which all of the members participate. To avoid scheduling conflicts, you can provide North Penn with three or more times throughout the year that you will reserve for PFA hearings. (These hearings are consistently scheduled every Monday, Wednesday and Friday morning.) North Penn provides training and support to the pro bono attorney, through an annual CLE, written materials, and individual training.

2. Mortgage Foreclosure Diversion Program

In July of 2012, the Lycoming County Court of Common Pleas instituted a Mortgage Foreclosure Diversion Program for owner-occupied properties in foreclosure. Homeowners who are sued can request that the foreclosure be stayed, while they attempt to negotiate with the lender and participate in a settlement conference with the Court. For the purposes of this program, the Lycoming Law Association asked attorneys to volunteer to represent homeowners, in the negotiations and settlement conferences, with household incomes equal to or less than 400% of Federal Poverty Income Guidelines. North Penn provides training and support to the pro bono attorney, through written materials and individual training.

3. Cases in your area of practice

Some attorneys prefer to represent clients with problems in the areas in which their private practice is focused. North Penn serves indigent clients in a wide variety of civil legal cases, and many are turned away due to the lack of resources. We can serve a much larger segment of the community with your help one in these areas:

1. Expungement, limited access, and pardoning of criminal records – if your practice is primarily criminal defense, this is the area for you. An old criminal record is often a barrier to employment and housing for indigent people.
2. Power of Attorney and guardianship – many indigent clients need help formalizing these relationships, in order to stabilize their finances and housing.
3. Government benefits – ineligibility, over/underpayment, or denial of coverage in disability, unemployment and medical assistance cases can have severe consequences for those living in poverty.
4. Bankruptcy – when it is necessary to protect the income, assets, housing or utility service of an indigent person.

4. Conflict Referrals

If you agree to be placed on our attorney referral list, you may be contacted directly by clients who cannot be served by North Penn due to a conflict of interest. When someone is financially eligible for North Penn's services, but is a conflict, we cannot gather the information necessary to make a direct referral. Those applicants are given the enclosed form, which is always copied on blue paper. They are given this form with a list of attorneys who practice in the area for which they are requesting services, so they can find their own representation. If an attorney accepts a conflict referral and sends the Acceptance of Pro Bono Referral form to us, the attorney is then given credit for a pro bono referral. If there is ever a question about the legitimacy of a referral, please do not hesitate to call North Penn's Pro Bono Coordinator, Becky Rennicks, at extension 8703.

Earning CLE credits by providing pro bono service

Beginning in 2019, attorneys may receive one (1) CLE credit hour for every five (5) hours of pro bono service completed through North Penn Legal Services. A maximum of three (3) credits may be applied per compliance period. For more information, see www.padisciplinaryboard.org/for-attorneys/pro-bono/pro-bono-article/1503/pennsylvania-continuing-legal-education-board-announces-formal-approval-of-cle-credit-for-pro-bono-service.

Donating your arbitration fees to the LLAF

Attorneys who serve on arbitration panels in Lycoming County can also donate some or all of their fees to the Lycoming Law Association Foundation, and a percentage of those donations is awarded to the Williamsport Office of North Penn Legal Services, to support its work in Lycoming County. A form for donating these fees is also enclosed.

We realize that most attorneys represent clients without compensation on occasion and also do pro bono work for organizations. However, the civil legal needs of many indigent people are unmet. Due to a shortfall in this area, an appeal for Pro Bono Service was made by Chief Justice Baer earlier this year, which is enclosed, and the Pennsylvania Bar Association maintains a website dedicated to pro bono service - PAProbono.net - an "online legal community that provides information and resources for pro bono attorneys, legal aid attorneys, public defenders, and other legal advocates interested in increasing access to justice. This site contains resources to assist in your representation of low income or disadvantaged clients."

Thank you so much for your attention and interest in pro bono work, and welcome to the Lycoming County bar! Please let us know how you wish to participate. We look forward to working with you.
